Professional Profile

Peter is an audit shareholder responsible for managing and overseeing engagements involving financial audits, financial consulting, and other assurance and attest services. He also heads the firm's Internal Audit and Sarbanes-Oxley 404 practice and is a member of the firm's Business Valuation practice group.

Peter's experience includes advising on technical accounting issues, such as IFRS, derivatives, revenue recognition and stock based compensation. Peter is also experienced in internal controls analysis, mergers and acquisition, due diligence reviews, and regulatory compliance. His background in financial reporting includes reviewing SEC disclosures, external financial statements, SEC registration statements, offering memorandums and other financial related documents. He also has coordinated due diligence teams, provided guidance on several multi-national engagements, and assisted clients during acquisition negotiations.

Peter has experience working with private and public clients in high tech, manufacturing and distribution industries and he regularly provides financial recommendations and technical accounting guidance to senior management teams. His latest accomplishment is gaining accreditation in business valuation and expanding the firm's scope of services related to fair value accounting and valuation.

Prior to joining Perkins & Company, Peter was a corporate controller in private industry. He also spent ten years at the national accounting firm, Arthur Andersen, in their assurance and internal audit outsourcing practices.
